2. Plaintiff is more tech savvy than each and every party to this motion. Plaintiff is a competent code writer in HTML, CSS, JavaScript, PHP, SQL, and other major coding languages. Plaintiff is competent with all Microsoft products required, Word, Excel, etc. Plaintiff is more than technically competent enough to use e-file.
3. Plaintiff has worked with many state e-file systems successfully and finds them much easier to work with than mailing documents or delivering them by hand.
4. Plaintiff is already experiencing significant procedural disadvantages without access to this system. Defendants to this action have over 10 attorneys on the action, filing motions constantly, on weekends, and on holidays (an action was filed on Memorial day by the defense). Plaintiff simply cannot be expected to litigate this case effectively or keep up with these motions without equal access to e-filing.

Plaintiff requests the court him grant access to the ecf/e-filing system.

Respectfully submitted,

Anthony Trupia
